Fair Value Assessment

The three Yorsipp product variants have been subject to the firm's fair value assessment in line with the Consumer Duty principle and is deemed to provide fair value for money based on the target market described in the next section. The fair value assessment has taken account of:

- A pricing assessment/comparison with similar products which has resulted in our product being deemed market competitive
- Our fee structure being simple, clear and concise, with charges for additional charges being kept to a minimum
- The fee structure allows for the SIPP product variants described above to be used as appropriate to the circumstances of the member
- The products and the charging structures are reviewed annually to ensure they remain appropriate and competitive
- Our fees are kept competitive through the retention of part of the bank interest earned on SIPP bank accounts

Based on our average fund size, expressed as a percentage our ongoing fees reflect 0.27% of the fund.

Target market

Our SIPP product variants are designed to meet the following customer needs:

- Adviser led investors who wish to have a say in their pension investment decisions and wish to access a wider variety of investment choice.
- While we do not stipulate a minimum fund value, our fair value assessment has assessed that appropriate minimum fund values are as follows:
 - A fund size of £50,000 for the Singular SIPP (the current average pot size £283k);
 - A fund size of £75,000 for the Step-up SIPP (the current average pot size £631k); and,
 - A fund size of £150,000 for the Full SIPP (the current average pot size £339k).
- Customers who are looking to build savings for their retirement (circa 56% of our clients), or those looking to take benefits (44%).

Our SIPP is not suitable for non-advised customers or those looking to invest in non-standard assets.
